

Special Issue on Digital Society and Social Transformation

Call for Papers

Digital Society and Social Transformation explores the profound changes brought by digital technologies to social structures, human interactions, institutions, and everyday life. Key themes include digitalization, social media, artificial intelligence, big data, digital platforms, online communities, digital citizenship, e-government, digital education, the future of work, technological innovation, and changing patterns of communication and participation. The topic also considers digital inequality, privacy, cybersecurity, algorithmic governance, technology adoption, and the social consequences of emerging technologies, while examining how digital transformation reshapes economies, organizations, cultures, communities, and relationships between individuals and institutions.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Digital Society and Social Transformation. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Digital transformation
- Digital society
- Social media
- Digital communication
- Artificial intelligence
- Big data analytics
- Digital platforms
- Online communities
- Digital citizenship
- E-government
- Digital education
- Future of work
- Digital inequality
- Privacy and data governance
- Algorithmic governance
- Technology and social change

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Digital Society and Social Transformation” should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue Timetable:

Submission Deadline	December 18th, 2026
Publication Date	February 2027

Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries, please contact Editorial Assistant at aasoci@scirp.org.