

Special Issue on
Industrial Development, Management, and Innovation
Call for Papers

Industrial Development, Management, and Innovation explores the dynamic interactions between industrial growth, organizational management, and technological innovation in shaping modern economies. This special issue focuses on industrial transformation, innovation management, production systems, digitalization, and sustainable industrial practices, with particular attention to strategies that enhance competitiveness, productivity, and resilience. Emphasis is placed on empirical and theoretical studies that examine policy frameworks, organizational models, technology adoption, and management practices across manufacturing and service industries, providing insights into how innovation-driven development supports long-term industrial and economic advancement.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Industrial Development, Management, and Innovation. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Industrial development strategy
