

Special Issue on Literary Review and Critical Analysis

Call for Papers

Literary Review and Critical Analysis centers on the systematic examination, interpretation, and evaluation of literary texts across historical periods, genres, and cultural contexts. This special issue invites scholarly contributions that employ established and emerging critical theories to analyze themes, narrative structures, language, and ideological frameworks in literature. Emphasis is placed on comparative perspectives, interdisciplinary methodologies, and innovative analytical approaches that advance literary scholarship, reassess canonical works, and illuminate underexplored texts, authors, and traditions within global literary studies.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Literary Review and Critical Analysis. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Canon formation and revisionist literary studies
- Comparative literature studies
- Cultural studies and literature
- Digital humanities and literary analysis
- Discourse analysis in literary texts
- Feminist and gender-based criticism
- Genre studies and narrative forms
- Historical and period-based literary analysis
- Intertextuality and influence studies
- Literary theory and critical methodologies
- Marxist and socio-political literary analysis
- Postcolonial literary criticism
- Psychoanalytic literary criticism
- Reader-response and reception theory
- Textual analysis and close reading
- Translation studies and cross-cultural criticism

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - *Literary Review and Critical Analysis” should be selected during your submission.
