

Special Issue on
English Literary Studies and Cultural Analysis

Call for Papers

English Literary Studies and Cultural Analysis is an interdisciplinary field that examines English literature within its broader cultural, historical, social, and ideological contexts. It integrates close textual analysis with theoretical approaches such as cultural studies, postcolonial theory, gender studies, and critical theory to explore how literary texts both reflect and shape cultural identities, values, and power relations. By analyzing genres, narratives, and representations across different periods and regions, this field enhances understanding of the dynamic interaction between literature and culture in a global and evolving English-language tradition.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring English Literary Studies and Cultural Analysis. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Victorian literature and culture
- Modernist literature and cultural studies
- Postcolonial literature and cultural analysis
- Gender studies and literary criticism
- Comparative literary and cultural studies
- Literature and cultural theory
- Narrative studies and storytelling
- Colonial and imperial discourse
- Race, ethnicity and literary representation
- Popular culture and literary studies
- Literature, media and cultural production
- Identity, power and ideology in literature
- Global anglophone literature
- Historical and cultural contexts of literature
- Interdisciplinary literary and cultural studies
- Critical approaches to English literature

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - *English Literary Studies and Cultural Analysis” should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue Timetable:

Submission Deadline	May 15th, 2026
Publication Date	July 2026

Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries, please contact Editorial Assistant at als@scirp.org.