Special Issue on Law, Rights, and Justice

Call for Papers

Law, Rights, and Justice explores the principles, institutions, and practices that shape legal systems and the protection of individual and collective rights. It examines topics including constitutional law, human rights, civil liberties, access to justice, legal institutions, judicial processes, equality, discrimination, and the relationship between law and society. The topic also considers contemporary legal challenges arising from technological development, social change, governance, and evolving standards of justice, providing a platform for theoretical, empirical, and comparative research on law, rights, and justice.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Law, Rights, and Justice. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Constitutional law
- Human rights
- Civil liberties
- Criminal justice
- Administrative law
- International law
- Legal theory
- Judicial systems
- Access to justice
- Equality and discrimination
- Family law
- Property law
- Labor law
- Environmental law
- Legal technology
- Comparative law

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Law, Rights, and Justice” should be selected during your submission.
