

Special Issue on
Educational Policy, Governance and Leadership
Call for Papers

"Educational Policy, Governance and Leadership" examines the frameworks and practices governing educational systems and their policy development. It focuses on decision-making processes, institutional structures, and leadership strategies that influence educational quality and equity. Key areas include policy analysis, school management, and leadership development, with an emphasis on improving educational outcomes. The field also explores the interplay between politics, economics, and education, assessing how policies impact students, educators, and communities at local, national and global levels.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Educational Policy, Governance and Leadership. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Educational policy analysis and implementation
- Governance structures in education systems
- Leadership theories and practices
- Leadership for teaching and learning
- International and comparative education policy
- Curriculum and instructional leadership
- Educational improvement, reform and change management
- Higher education governance and management
- Student affairs administration
- School leadership and administration
- Educational finance and resource allocation
- Higher education policy and reform
- Teacher policy and professional leadership
- Equity, access and social justice in education policy
