

Special Issue on Language and Education

Call for Papers

Language and Education is an interdisciplinary field examining the role of language in teaching, learning and educational outcomes. It explores first and second language acquisition, bilingual and multilingual education, language policy and planning, classroom discourse, literacy development and the impact of linguistic diversity on academic achievement. The field also addresses language ideologies, assessment of language proficiency and pedagogical approaches to support equitable learning for all students.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Language and Education. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Language teaching methods
- Curriculum design
- Early childhood language education
- Language and cognitive development
- Educational linguistics
- Special needs language education
- Language and literacy development
- Reading and writing
- Language acquisition and learning
- English as a foreign language
- Bilingual and multilingual education
- Second language acquisition
- Language assessment and evaluation
- Language policy and planning
- Teacher education and language
- Content-based language instruction
- Language and education in cross-cultural contexts
- Sociolinguistics and language policy
- Psycholinguistics and language learning
- Critical pedagogy and language education
- Language in higher education
- Applied linguistics in education
- Technology-enhanced language learning
- Social networking for language education

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission.

Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – *Language and Education” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	September 15th, 2026
Publication Date	November 2026

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

CE Editorial Office