Special Issue on
Case Reports in Clinical and Experimental Medicine
Call for Papers

Case Reports in Clinical and Experimental Medicine is an academic field that documents and analyzes unique, rare, or novel medical cases to advance scientific and clinical knowledge. It focuses on detailed descriptions of patient presentations, diagnostic processes, treatments, and outcomes, as well as experimental findings, helping to improve clinical practice, generate research hypotheses, and enhance understanding of disease mechanisms and therapeutic responses.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Case Reports in Clinical and Experimental Medicine. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Rare and unusual disease cases
- Novel diagnostic approaches
- Innovative therapeutic interventions
- Unusual presentations of common diseases
- Adverse drug reactions and safety reports
- Surgical and interventional case studies
- Translational and experimental medicine cases
- Genetic and precision medicine reports
- Infectious and emerging disease cases
- Diagnostic errors and clinical decision-making
- Multidisciplinary and complex case management
- Negative findings & treatment failures
- Long-term follow-up & natural history
- Ethical, social or healthcare system dilemmas

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Case Reports in Clinical and Experimental Medicine” should be chosen during your submission.
