

Special Issue on Occupational Disease

Call for Papers

An Occupational Disease is an disease that occurs as a result of an exposure to risk factors arising from work activity. It is typically identified when it is shown more prevalent in a given body of workers than in the general population, or in other worker populations. As one of the most important research fields of health and disease, occupational diseases are of great attractions to researchers.

In this special issue, we invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles that explore occupational disease. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Occupational lung disease
- Occupational skin diseases
- Occupational Infection
- Carpal tunnel syndrome
- Computer vision syndrome
- Other diseases of concern

Authors should read over the journal's Authors' Guidelines carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue - Occupational Disease” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	January 28th, 2015
Publication Date	March 2015

Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries
Please contact Editorial Assistant at ijcm@scirp.org