

Special Issue on Cancer Nursing and Cancer Care

Call for Papers

Nursing in cancer care focuses on patient assessment, education, symptom management, and supportive care. In medical oncology they play an integral role in the administration of antineoplastic agents and are responsible for safe drug handling.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original researches and review articles on exploring cancer nursing and cancer care. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Oncology nursing and cancer care
- Cancer across life span
- Cancer services
- Cancer surgery, radiotherapy and chemotherapy
- Cultural and spiritual care
- Cancer education for nurses and patients
- Patient safety
- Palliative care
- Case studies

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal at Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue – Cancer Nursing and Cancer Care” should be selected during your submission.
