

Special Issue on Cybersecurity and Information Security

Call for Papers.

“Cybersecurity and Information Security” is an academic field that focuses on protecting computer systems, networks, devices and data from unauthorized access, attacks, damage or disruption. It covers topics such as encryption, network security, risk management, threat detection, digital forensics and privacy protection. The field integrates computer science, information systems and cryptography to ensure confidentiality, integrity and availability of information in both personal and organizational contexts across digital environments.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Cybersecurity and Information Security. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Network and Infrastructure security
- Security architecture
- Cryptography and data encryption
- Cryptographic protocols
- Artificial intelligence for cybersecurity
- Application and software security
- Cloud and distributed system security
- Cloud and virtualized environment security
- Digital forensics and incident response
- Identity and access management
- Cyber threat intelligence
- IoT and embedded systems security
- Privacy protection and data security
- Vulnerability research & penetration testing
- Information security management
- Operating system and hardware security
- Malware analysis and antivirus technology
- Intrusion detection and prevention systems

Authors should read over the journal’s For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal’s Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Cybersecurity and Information Security” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	September 30th, 2026
Publication Date	November 2026
