

Special Issue on Health and Social Sciences

Call for Papers

Health is a state of complete physical, mental and social well-being and not merely the absence of disease and infirmity. It is associated with people's lifestyles, occupations, individual choices, governments' decisions and the relevance of ecological factors. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Health and Social Sciences.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Health and Social Sciences. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Health and behavior
- Health economics
- Health knowledge
- Health problems
- Health service
- Health technologies
- Health therapy
- Healthcare and social service
- Medical care
- Public health
- Social epidemiology
- Welfare and health

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Health and Social Sciences” should be selected during your submission.
