

Special Issue on Economic and Social Advancement

Call for Papers

Economic and Social Advancement explores the processes, strategies, and policies that drive sustainable economic growth and social development. It welcomes research on inclusive economic policies, poverty reduction, social equity, entrepreneurship, innovation, and human capital development. Studies addressing the intersections of economic transformation and social well-being, including education, healthcare, and community development, are also encouraged. By integrating insights from economics, sociology, public policy, and development studies, this issue aims to provide practical and theoretical frameworks for promoting balanced economic progress and improving quality of life across diverse communities.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Economic and Social Advancement. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Community development and empowerment
- Economic growth and development
- Economic policy analysis
- Education and workforce development
- Entrepreneurship and innovation
- Financial inclusion and microfinance
- Globalization and economic integration
- Governance and institutional development
- Human capital development
- Labor markets and employment
- Poverty alleviation strategies
- Public health and social welfare
- Social entrepreneurship
- Social equity and inclusion
- Sustainable development policies
- Urban and regional development

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Economic and Social Advancement” should be selected during your submission.
