

Special Issue on Environmental Economics and Development

Call for Papers

Environmental economics is an area of economics dealing with the relationship between the economy and the environment.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original researches and review articles on exploring environmental economics and development. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Resources and resource policy
- Economic policies
- Economic assessment of natural resources
- Disasters and economics
- Pollution and environmental degradation
- Finance of environmental management and environmental protection
- Socio-economic development and sustainable development
- Global warming and other international problems
- Environmental problems in developing countries

Authors should read over the journal's Authors' Guidelines carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal at Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue – Environmental Economics and Development” should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue timetable:

Submission Deadline	September 28th, 2016
Publication Date	November 2016

Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries
Please contact Editorial Assistant at me@scirp.org