

Special Issue on Political Economy

Call for Papers

Political economy studies the relationships between individuals and society and between markets and the state, using a diverse set of tools and methods drawn largely from economics, political science, and sociology.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Political Economy. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Behavioral political economy
- Comparative political economy
- Economics and international relations
- Monetary and fiscal policy
- Central banking
- Political economy & government
- Public policy
- Policy making and reform
- Competition policy
- International political economy
- Government and business
- Macro political economy
- Political economy of development
- Political and economic systems
- Politics of global supply chains
- Unemployment
- Culture, economy and politics
- Economics, politics and sociology

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Political Economy” should be chosen during your submission.
