

Special Issue on Monetary Economics and Finance

Call for Papers

Monetary Economics and Finance is an academic field that examines the roles of money, financial systems and monetary policy in influencing economic activity and financial stability. It explores topics such as central banking, inflation, interest rates, financial markets, banking systems, asset pricing and international finance. The field integrates economic theory and financial analysis to understand resource allocation, risk management, macroeconomic performance and the functioning of domestic and global financial systems.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Monetary Economics and Finance. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Monetary policy analysis
- Monetary theory and economic growth
- Macroeconomics and monetary policy
- Monetary policy and public finance
- Central banking and financial regulation
- Banking and credit markets
- Inflation, interest rates and macroeconomic stability
- Asset pricing and investment analysis
- International finance and exchange rates
- International monetary economics
- Financial markets and institutions
- Financial risk management
- Corporate finance and capital structure
- Monetary transmission mechanisms
- Money demand, supply, and velocity
- Digital currencies, FinTech and payment systems
- Behavioral finance and monetary decision-making
- Political economy of money and finance
- Fiscal-monetary interactions and public debt management

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Monetary Economics and Finance” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	October 6th, 2026
Publication Date	December 2026

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

ME Editorial Office