
Special Issue on Organizational and Business Management Call for Papers

Management is the administration of an organization, whether it is a business, a not-for-profit organization, or government body. Management includes the activities of setting the strategy of an organization and coordinating the efforts of its employees to accomplish its objectives through the application of available resources, such as financial, natural, technological, and human resources. Governance structures and principles identify the distribution of rights and responsibilities among different participants in organizations.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Organizational and Business Management. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Effective business governance
- Theories of organization development
- Corporate governance in business
- Planning, leadership and controlling
- Policy analysis and decision-making
- Risk management
- Business relationship management
- Organizational regulations and performance
- Strategic management
- Investment strategy
- Innovation and entrepreneurship
- Organizing resources and management
- Human resources management and motivation
- Business management in global environment

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Organizational and Business Management” should be chosen during your submission.
