Special Issue on Ecosystem Sustainability and Environmental Management

Call for Papers

Ecosystem Sustainability and Environmental Management focuses on the conservation, restoration, and responsible use of natural resources to maintain ecological balance and ensure long-term environmental health. It integrates principles from ecology, environmental science, economics, and policy to address pressing global challenges such as climate change, biodiversity loss, pollution, and resource depletion. The field emphasizes sustainable practices, ecosystem resilience, and adaptive management strategies, aiming to harmonize human activities with natural systems while supporting socio-economic development and safeguarding ecosystem services for present and future generations.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Ecosystem Sustainability and Environmental Management. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Biodiversity management
- Climate change science
- Conservation biology
- Ecological restoration
- Ecosystem ecology
- Environmental impact assessment
- Environmental monitoring and modeling
- Environmental policy and governance
- Forest and wildlife management
- Marine and coastal management
- Natural resource economics
- Pollution control and remediation
- Sustainable agriculture and agroecology
- Sustainable resource management
- Urban and regional sustainability planning
- Water resource management

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - *Ecosystem Sustainability and Environmental Management” should be selected during your submission.
