Special Issue on

Labor and Delivery: Research and Practice

Call for Papers

Labor and Delivery: Research and Practice is a medical field focused on the clinical management of childbirth, maternal care and delivery outcomes. It encompasses labor physiology, obstetric interventions, pain management, fetal monitoring, cesarean delivery and management of childbirth complications. The field integrates clinical research and evidence-based practices to promote safe childbirth, reduce maternal and neonatal risks, improve obstetric care, and enhance the health and well-being of mothers and newborns.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Labor and Delivery: Research and Practice. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Labor Physiology and Mechanisms of Childbirth
- High-Risk Pregnancy and Labor Management
- Fetal Monitoring and Intrapartum Assessment
- Labor Induction and Augmentation
- Obstetric Anesthesia and Pain Management
- Cesarean Section and Surgical Obstetrics
- Vaginal Delivery and Operative Obstetrics
