

Special Issue on Developmental Pediatrics

Call for Papers

Developmental Pediatrics is a medical specialty focused on the assessment, diagnosis, treatment, and management of developmental and behavioral conditions in children. It encompasses neurodevelopmental disorders, developmental delays, learning difficulties, behavioral challenges, communication disorders and social-emotional development. The field integrates clinical research, developmental assessment, family-centered care, and early intervention strategies to support children's growth, improve developmental outcomes, and promote health and well-being from infancy through adolescence.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Developmental Pediatrics. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Infant and Newborn Development
- Neurodevelopmental Disorders
