

Special Issue on
Ethics, Morality, and Human Behavior

Call for Papers

Ethics, Morality, and Human Behavior explores the principles, values, and psychological processes that shape human actions, social interactions, and moral decision-making. The field examines ethical theories, moral philosophy, behavioral studies, social responsibility, cultural values, and the relationship between individual conduct and societal norms. It also investigates contemporary ethical challenges in areas such as technology, governance, healthcare, education, and business, while promoting critical thinking, ethical reasoning, and a deeper understanding of human behavior in diverse social and cultural contexts.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Ethics, Morality, and Human Behavior. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Applied ethics
- Moral philosophy
- Behavioral psychology
- Ethical decision-making
- Social and moral development
- Professional ethics
- Moral psychology
- Human values studies
- Cultural ethics
- Ethical leadership
- Philosophy of behavior
- Ethics in technology
- Social responsibility studies
- Human rights ethics
- Cognitive and behavioral studies
- Ethics and public policy

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Ethics, Morality, and Human Behavior” should be selected during your submission.
