
Special Issue on Political Science and Politics

Call for Papers

Politics is a basic field of human social life, and political knowledge has always been an important part of human social knowledge. Political science is a social science subject, mainly studying political behavior, political system and related fields of politics. The study of political science is generally divided into traditional political philosophy and modern political science. The goal of this special issue is to provide a platform for scientists and academicians all over the world to promote, share, and discuss various new issues and developments in the area of Political Science and Politics.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Political Science and Politics. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Nation, states and governments
- Political theory, political science, and politics
- Public policy and public administration
- International relations
- Political methodology
- Political economy
- Democracy, totalitarianism and authoritarianism
- Election and voting

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - Political Science and Politics” should be selected during your submission.

Special Issue Timetable:

Submission Deadline	June 19th, 2020
Publication Date	August 2020

Guest Editor:

For further questions or inquiries, please contact Editorial Assistant at ojps@scirp.org.