

Special Issue on Politics and Governance

Call for Papers

Politics and Governance examines the institutions, processes, and policies that shape political systems and public administration at the local, national, and global levels. This interdisciplinary field covers topics such as democratic governance, public policy, political institutions, international relations, public administration, electoral systems, digital governance, political economy, and regulatory frameworks. It also explores emerging challenges related to globalization, technological innovation, sustainability, social equity, and citizen participation in governance. By integrating theoretical perspectives with empirical research, this field aims to advance effective governance, strengthen institutional capacity, and promote transparent, accountable, and inclusive political systems.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring Politics and Governance. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Political theory
- Comparative politics
- Public administration
- Public policy
- Democratic governance
- Political institutions
- Electoral systems
- International relations
- Political economy
- Global governance
- Local governance
- Digital governance
- Environmental governance
- Public sector management
- Government accountability
- Policy analysis

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly specify the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title. The research field “Special Issue - *Politics and Governance” should be selected during your submission.
