

Special Issue on General Surgery

Call for Papers

General Surgery is a medical discipline focused on the diagnosis, operative treatment and perioperative management of a wide range of conditions, particularly those involving the gastrointestinal tract, liver, pancreas, breast, endocrine system, soft tissues, and abdominal wall. It encompasses both elective and emergency procedures, integrating advances in minimally invasive techniques, surgical oncology and patient-centered perioperative care.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on General Surgery. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Gastrointestinal surgery
- Colorectal surgery
- Pancreatic surgery
- Hepatobiliary surgery
- Breast surgery
- Endocrine surgery
- Vascular surgery
- Cardiovascular surgery
- Surgical oncology
- Hernia and abdominal wall surgery
- Trauma and emergency surgery
- Transplant surgery
- Minimally invasive and laparoscopic surgery
- Technology integration
- Health services & outcomes research in surgery

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.
