

Special Issue on Economic Growth

Call for Papers

Economic Growth studies the factors and processes that increase a country's production capacity, income and overall economic output over time. It examines the roles of capital investment, labor, technology, innovation, education and public policy in driving long-term development. The field analyzes how economies expand, improve living standards, reduce poverty, and achieve sustainable development within changing global economic environments.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Economic Growth. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Theories and models of economic growth
- Exogenous and endogenous growth theory
- Productivity and innovation studies
- Human capital and labor economics
- Political economy of growth
- Macroeconomic growth theory
- Microeconomics of economic growth
- International trade and economic integration
- Trade, investment and growth
- Development economics
- Empirical growth and development
- Financial development and economic growth
- Industrial organization and economic growth
- Technology and innovation economics
- Entrepreneurship and economic growth
- Regional and urban economic growth
- Inequality and economic growth
- Environmental economics and sustainable growth
- Institutional economics and governance

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – *Economic Growth” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	September 21st, 2026
Publication Date	November 2026

For publishing inquiries, please feel free to contact the Editorial Assistant at submission.entrance1@scirp.org

TEL Editorial Office