
Special Issue on Heart Failure

Call for Papers

Heart Failure is a clinical condition in which the heart is unable to pump blood effectively to meet the body's metabolic needs. It encompasses a range of structural and functional cardiac impairments, leading to symptoms such as fatigue, shortness of breath and fluid retention. The field studies underlying causes, pathophysiology, diagnostic methods and treatment strategies, including pharmacological therapy, device implantation and lifestyle interventions, aiming to improve patient outcomes, quality of life and long-term survival.

In this special issue, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on Heart Failure. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Epidemiology
- Pathophysiology
- Acute and chronic heart failure
- Prevention and risk factors
- Genetics and heart failure
- Diagnosis and clinical assessment
- Cardiac surgery
- Cardiovascular imaging
- Device therapy and mechanical support
- Advanced heart failure therapies
- Pediatric and congenital heart failure
- Heart failure with reduced ejection fraction
- Heart failure with preserved ejection fraction
- Cardiac electrophysiology and arrhythmias
- Myocardial energetics and metabolism
- Cardiac remodeling and fibrosis
- Innovative therapies in heart failure
- Pharmacotherapy and clinical trials
- Cardiac rehabilitation and lifestyle interventions
- Sudden cardiac death
- Management of comorbidities
- Exercise physiology and rehabilitation
- Palliative and supportive care
- Biomarker discovery and precision medicine

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission.

Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the “Special Issue” under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field “Special Issue – Heart Failure” should be chosen during your submission.

According to the following timetable:

Submission Deadline	June 27th, 2026
Publication Date	August 2026
